

PRESIDENT SPEAKS ON RACE PROBLEM

SAYS NEGROES MUST BE GIVEN
EQUAL OPPORTUNITIES

URGES MORE EDUCATION

White and Black Races, However,
Must Be Kept Racially and Socially
Distinct

BY GEORGE HOLMES
(International News Staff Correspondent)

Birmingham, Ala., Oct. 26.—Straight into the heart of the democratic South with its millions of negroes, President Harding came today with a frank and stirring message dealing with the race problem.

The time has passed, the president said, when the problem of race is of concern only to the South, or even to the United States. It has now become a world problem, he said, and he suggested that it can be best dealt with by recognizing these fundamentals:

1. That the negro be accorded equal opportunities of political, business and education and
2. That there be absolute divergence racially and socially, each race with its own traditions, ideals, etc.

"Surely," said the president, "we shall gain nothing by blinking at the facts, by refusing to give thought to them. That is not the American way of approaching such issues."

President Harding and his party arrived here shortly before 9 o'clock this morning to spend the day as guests of the city at the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of its founding. He was given a tremendous ovation by a great mass of people who met the train.

President Harding spoke to a great audience of southerners gathered in Capitol Park at the celebration of Birmingham's fiftieth birthday. It followed a parade through the city, and his speech dealt entirely with the industrial South and its problems.

No Social Equality.

"Men of both races," continued the president, "may well stand uncompromisingly against every suggestion of social equality. It would be helpful to have that word 'equality' eliminated from this consideration; to have it accepted on both sides that this is not a question of social equality but a question of recognizing a fundamental eternal and inescapable difference."

"Politically and economically, there need be no occasion for great and permanent differentiation, for limitations of the individual's opportunity provided that 'on both sides there shall be recognition of the absolute divergence in things social and racial.'"

"I would say let the black man vote when he is fit to vote; prohibit the white man voting when he is unfit to vote."

"I wish that both the tradition of a solidly democratic South and the tradition of a solidly republican black race might be broken up."

"I want to see the time when black men will vote for democratic candidates, if they prefer the democratic policy on tariff or taxation, or foreign relations, or what not; and when they will, vote the republican ticket for like reasons."

"We cannot go on as we have gone for more than half a century, with great section of our population, numbering as many people as the entire population of some significant countries of Europe, set off from real contribution to solving our national issues, because of a division of race lines."

Must Educate Negroes.

The president warned his audience that the South must do something educationally for the negro and not make its black population "a vast reservoir of ignorance to be drained away by the processes of immigration to other sections."

The growing industrialism of the South, he said, will not permit this if the South is to continue to prosper.

In speaking of education, the president said he had no sympathy with "half baked altruism" that would overstock the country with doctors and lawyers and leave no laborers.

"We are under necessity to raise honest, hard, manual work to a new dignity if we are to get it done," he said, pointing to the fact that restricted immigration has cut off the supply of "common labor."

The president paid high tribute to the growth and resources of the South industrially. His speech, in part, follows:

They have been loaned to the school by the Colonial Art Company of Oklahoma City, Okla. The originals of the pictures are famed in all lands, prized in the greatest art galleries, and for which fabulous sums are paid.

High School students to-day are busy classifying the library under the direction of C. E. Wells of the State Teachers College. The school has just received a new set of books from the army that were given to the training camps during the war. This greatly increases the total number of books in the library.

LEGION WILL SEND SMALL DELEGATION

ONLY ABOUT TWENTY-FIVE TO KANSAS CITY FROM HERE

THE OFFICIAL PROGRAM

Convention Proper Begins Monday
Morning and Ends Wednesday Afternoon

Identification slips to be used by members of the American Legion to secure the reduced fare of one cent a mile to the national convention at Kansas City next week have been received by John Mutz, adjutant of the James Edward Gray post of Maryville. About twenty-five of them have already been issued.

Other post in the county are expected to send delegation to the convention. Reassurances have been sent out by the state officers that the threatened railroad strike will not interfere with the gathering of the former service men.

The leading airplanes in this country have been entered in the various contests at the American Legion National Aero Derby, to be held in Kansas City in connection with the National Convention, October 31, November 1 and 2. Fifty entries have been received at headquarters to date. The airplane races there immediately precede the Pulitzer Trophy race and International Aero Congress, at Omaha, Nebraska, November 3, 4 and 5. Both flying meets have been sanctioned by the Aero Club of America, with which the Flying Club of Kansas City and the Aero Club of Omaha are affiliated. They are receiving the support of all civilian aviation interests and also the Government. The majority of America's noted pilots will compete in the races at the Convention.

Planes have been entered from many cities. Several of the latest passenger-carrying aircraft, representing the latest development in the art, will fly from New York to Kansas City, the latter part of this month competing in the "On to Kansas City" cross country race—the winner of which will be determined by efficiency in carrying passengers the greatest distance in the quickest time, taking into consideration the horsepower at the disposal of each contestant.

There are several other contests calculated to win prizes for all kinds of aircraft. An elaborate program of aerial circus stunts has been completed, and entries so far indicate that the meet will be one of the largest and most important in the history of American aviation. Among the distinguished guests of honor will be Marshall Foch, Admiral Beatty, General Diaz, General Jacques, representing France, England, Italy and Belgium, respectively, General Pershing, Admiral Coontz, Chief of Operations of the United States Navy, and Major General Lejeune, Commandant of the United States Marine Corps.

Other distinguished visitors will include approximately half of the total number of men qualified by action on the field of battle to wear the Congressional Medal of Honor. The scores of operators of airplanes, who have entered in the Kansas City meet will fly their craft directly to Omaha as quickly as the races terminate here.

The official program for the Legion meet is as follows:

Sunday, October 30.

2:30 p. m.—Dedication of memorial fountain presented by Kansas City to Legion Posts of the city. Mme. Schumann-Heink will sing.

8:00 p. m.—Memorial services in Convention Hall by the 89th Division in honor of the Division's dead. (General William W. Wright, General Frank L. Winn and P. W. O'Donald, principal speakers).

Monday, October 31.

8:30 a. m.—Convention convenes.

FIFTY AT BANQUET OF SHORTHORN MEN

RAIN CUTS ATTENDANCE, BUT AFFAIR IS SUCCESS, ANYWAY

FIRST OF SALES TODAY

Others to be Held at Clearmont and Graham and at Maryville
Saturday

In spite of the rain which made it impossible for breeders to come from other parts of the county, more than fifty of the places were taken at the banquet of the Nodaway County Shorthorn Breeders' Association at the Bannum Hotel last night. A number of business men met with the breeders.

President John R. Evans introduced J. Kelly Wright of the state board of agriculture, whose nine years in field work enable him to speak with authority on agricultural conditions in Missouri. He emphasized that better livestock in Missouri makes for better citizenship. He showed Missouri first in many lines of production. In livestock, the state has won more prizes at the International and American Royal shows than any other state. Nodaway and Cooper counties he said were the leading livestock counties of Missouri.

The slides used by Mr. Wright to illustrate his lecture on Missouri included views taken of the purebred Shorthorn cattle of Bellows Brothers of Maryville and the Aberdeen Angus herd of C. D. and E. F. Caldwell of Burlington Junction.

The new Chamber of Commerce agricultural movies were shown and also a film furnished by the American Shorthorn Breeders' Association. The latter showed the winning Shorthorn cattle at the International Livestock Show at Chicago in 1916, when the Bellows Brothers herd won more championships than any other herd. In that year Village Supreme was first in the yearling bull class and was also grand champion. King Baron was first in the junior bull calf class. Futurity championships were won by King Baron and Parkdale Victoria 8th.

Other short talks at the banquet were made by President Evans, C. D. Bellows and R. A. Kinnaird.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Scott, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Mutz, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Curfman and Miss Helen Curfman, Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Kinnaird, Mr. and Mrs. John R. Evans, Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Bellows, Lawrence Ogden, George A. Picken, Ralph Marcell, Bert Cooper, Dr. Jesse Miller, Sr., Mr. and Mrs. Fred Curfman, Miss Kathryn Franken, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Stanfield, Mr. and Mrs. F. S. King, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Garrett of Wilcox, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Mutz, G. A. Fite, Mr. and Mrs. Dale Bellows, George McMurray, Al Gross, Roy Lippman, Mr. and Mrs. Fay Bellows and daughter, Mary Jane, R. P. Hosmer, Fred Hull, B. D. Murray, Ralph Wray, Denton D. Belt, R. M. Evans, Earl Evans, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Evans, C. L. Wells, W. O. Garrett and Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Auer.

The first of the fall series of sales of the association was held this afternoon at Gaynor, with seventeen cows and heifers and twelve bulls offered. The sale tomorrow will be at L. L. Hart's farm, one and one-half miles south of Clearmont. Twenty-one cows and heifers and eleven bulls are offered to the buyers.

Friday's sale will be at A. J. Thornton's barn in Graham, with twenty-four cows and heifers and twelve bulls offered.

The last of the sales will be held at Gray's sale pavilion in Maryville at 1 o'clock Saturday. To the original offering of thirteen cows and heifers and eight bulls have been added several other animals listed since the catalog was printed.

WILD MAN FROM GAYNOR IS SENT BACK TO HOSPITAL

Claud Linninger has been ordered sent to State Hospital No. 2 at St. Joseph by the county court in session this afternoon. Linninger has been at the county farm at intervals for a year and has escaped from that institution several times. After his escapes he seems to have a desire for the Gaynor community and he has been called the "wild man from Gaynor." He has been confined to the county jail since his last escape.

Mrs. H. L. Yarger and Richard Orr left this afternoon for St. Joseph after a short visit here at the home of the former's niece, Mrs. S. P. Allison, and family.

MISSIONARY MEET ADJOURNS TODAY

DELEGATES LEAVE AFTER SYSSIONS AT M. E. CHURCH, SOUTH

TO BUILD DORMITORIES

Centenary Council Provides For $100,000 Building At State University

Delegates to the meeting of the St. Joseph District of the Women's Missionary Society of the M. E. Church, South, adjourned this afternoon, after two days crowded with interest and instruction. A basket dinner was held at the church at noon today.

Mrs. W. M. Alexander of Fayette, corresponding secretary, spoke last night on "World Needs and Our Responsibility." Mrs. Edith Crow of St. Joseph, conference recording secretary, continued her talk on "Stewardship." Miss Louise Peery gave a reading, "Miss Pettigrew's Reception," and a quartet composed of Mrs. Bess, Mrs. E. L. Padgett, R. C. Seal and Bert Loomis sang "Bless My Soul, Oh Thou Jehovah."

This morning, Mrs. W. P. Graham of St. Joseph, district secretary, spoke on "The Stewardship of Excellence." Mrs. Edith Crow spoke on "Echoes from the Field." Mrs. W. M. Alexander on "The Reed Scholarship," and Mrs. W. P. Graham on "The Week of Prayer and the Lambeth Memorial in Japan."

The Reed scholarship is offered to any young woman who wishes to enter the missionary field. It is given from the interest on a fund of $4,200 set aside by the mission board of the M. E. Church, South. Mrs. Alexander also discussed the "Membership Campaign."

In the St. Joseph district, according to the Rev. B. F. Cline, there were seventeen adult missionary auxiliaries during the past year. There were seven young people's auxiliaries, two junior divisions and two baby divisions. The total membership in all the auxiliaries and divisions was 563. They remitted $1,847.28 in cash to the conference, and raised $3,327.33 for local work.

The Rev. and Mrs. John H. Hubbard of Ravenwood were additional delegates who registered today.

This afternoon the principal address was given by Mrs. W. M. Alexander on the Missouri Methodist Foundation. The delegates endorsed the action of the Centenary Council in providing for the construction of three dormitories for girls at various schools at a cost of $100,000 each. Of this amount $25,000 is to be raised by the Women's Missionary Society for each dormitory, and the part of the Missouri conference is $10,000. One of the dormitories will be placed at Columbia, for the girl students of the University of Missouri. The plans call for its completion by the fall of 1922.

WILL INTERN CHARLES ON ISLAND IN MEDITERRANEAN

Former Emperor May Later Be Shut Up On Wife's Estate In Italy

London, Oct. 26.—Former Emperor Charles of Austria will be temporarily interned on a lonely island in the Mediterranean sea, the British foreign office announced today. He will be handed over to the British authorities and taken down the Danube in British gun boat to his new home, where he will be held until the council of ambassadors finally settles his case.

Vienna, Oct. 26.—Charles has expressed a wish to be interned in Italy, where his wife owns a small estate near Biaduna, says a Budapest dispatch. The whole matter, however, rests first with the Allies and second with Italy.

Rome, Oct. 26.—Italy looks with favor upon the proposal to intern former Emperor Charles and the monarch's family in Italy. The village of Villa Reggia is among the places suggested as his internment abode.

DOUBTS AUTHORITY OF RAILWAY BOARD

UNION LEADER SAYS MEN HAVE RIGHT TO STRIKE.

FINAL CONFERENCE OPENS

Several Brotherhood Chairmen Apparently Will Disregard Board's Summons.

Chicago, Oct. 26.—A virtual challenge of authority of the railway labor board to order the threatened railroad strike called off or even to investigate the strike was hurled by W. G. Lee, president of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, today at a conference before the labor board.

Lee intimated the brotherhoods are willing to have the courts test the authority of the labor board to intervene in the present controversy.

"It is our understanding of the law," said Lee, "that after the board has heard the dispute and made a decision, it is the privilege of the men to leave the service if they are unwilling to accept the board's wage cut decision. The test in the courts might show otherwise, but that remains our understanding until tested."

Chicago, Oct. 26.—The conference that the railway labor board hopes will avert the threatened strike October 30 opened at 10 o'clock today. As the roll was called it became evident that many of the general chairman of the brotherhoods had not responded to the summons.

L. E. Shephard of the order of railway conductors demanded the right to have his organization represented by its executive committee and by counsel. The same demand was made by Warren Stone of the engineers and W. S. Carter of the firemen.

FRED CARPENTER IS GIVEN JAIL SENTENCE AT OREGON

Pleads Guilty to Manufacture of Liquor—Paroled on Charge of Bootlegging.

Fred Carpenter of Maitland pleaded guilty at Oregon yesterday to the charge of manufacturing liquor and was given a fine of six months in jail and a fine of $500 by Judge A. D. Barnes.

On the charge of the illegal sale of intoxicating liquor Carpenter was given one year in jail by the jury, on condition that a parole be granted. The case went to the jury at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, and the jury reported at 10 o'clock last night they were unable to agree unless this understanding was made.

Ellis G. Cook of Maryville represented Carpenter. A few Maryville witnesses, prosecuting attorney Charles McCaffrey, Deputy Sheriff Gus Romoser and Night Policeman Ed Wallace, were the prosecuting witnesses.

The same charges were filed against Carpenter in this county, but were dismissed at the recent circuit court term when the main witnesses for the state, refused to tell what they knew.

ANOTHER WATER ELECTION AT BURLINGTON JUNCTION

Judge C. E. Walker Says Petition Will Be Presented To Council
Tonight

Judge C. E. Walker of Burlington Junction, who was in Maryville today, said another election to vote on the proposition of a $39,000 water plant at that town will probably be held soon. He said a petition which was widely signed will be presented to the city council of Burlington Junction at a session to be held this evening requesting such an election.

At the election held in Burlington Junction October 17, the proposition was defeated by a vote of 216 for, and 167 against, lacking 38 votes to carry, as a two-thirds majority is required.

Judge Walker says there seemed to be some misunderstanding in regard to the proposition before, which has since been removed. He thinks the proposition will carry next time.

Miss Velma Griffith of Albany, who has been the guest of Miss Bessie Cooper, returned to her home today.

THE WEATHER

Unsettled weather with rain tonight and in the west and north portions Thursday; not much change in temperature; fresh southeast winds.

DENIES CHARGES OF COUNTY SUPERINTENDENT.

DeKalb County Man Says Consolidated Board Is Following Judges' Instructions.

In a letter to the Democrat-Forum, J. M. Turnage of Maryville takes issue with Mrs. Lou P. McAdam, superintendent of DeKalb county schools, who declared Mr. Turnage was opposing the wishes of school patrons who voted for consolidation of several districts and should be deposed. Mr. Turnage writes as follows:

Editor, the Democrat-Forum: In your issue of October 13, Mrs. Lou P. McAdam, county superintendent of schools of DeKalb County, who attended the Northwest Teachers' Association at Maryville, made some very misleading statements in regard to me as president of Consolidated District 1, or Fairport Number 38.

Mrs. McAdam says, "The present president of the board being one of the opposition, has since refused absolutely to call a meeting or hire a teacher for the high school." We have had three meetings since I was elected as member of the board, the last being June 14, 1921. At each meeting the subject of high school was discussed thoroughly.

Mrs. McAdam in the beginning of her harangue says it has been proven that we are a consolidated district. The majority of this board say we are not until the case is finally disposed by the Supreme Court.

The last year's board maintained a high school and the high school teacher has not, to my certain knowledge, been paid. The consolidated board of last year took, or attempted to do so at least, the power in their own hands of hiring the teachers for the several schools of this district, also that of the high school. They also tried to get our township trustee to turn over all money to the treasurer of the consolidated board. This he would not do. Consequently the teachers of the grades were not paid any money until January, 1921, when the Hon. A. D. Burns issued his decision instructing the local boards to issue warrants upon the township treasurer for incidental expenses that had accrued, teachers wages of the grades, but none for the high school until the Supreme Court acts upon the case that is now before them.

Therefore, we as a board are simply following the instructions of Judge Burns. We have no money in our hands to maintain a high school; neither can we legally impose a levy upon our district for the maintenance of the same, until this case has been passed upon by the supreme court.

PICKERING HIGH SCHOOL PUBLISHES MONTHLY PAPER

"The Flashlight" Is Name of Student Publication Of Which Miriam Geyer Is Editor

"The Flashlight" is the name of a new school paper issued monthly by the students of the Pickering High school. The first issue was published this week at the Maco Print Shop of this city. The staff is composed of Miriam Geyer, editor-in-chief; Mildred Lamm, representing the junior class; Forrest Smith, the sophomore class; Dennis Hood, the freshman; and John Hood, athletics.

The following is the paper's opening announcement:

As this is the first issue of our paper, we feel that a word of introduction is necessary, to give you an insight into our reasons for it, and our aims for the future.

The main purpose of the "Flashlight," is to arouse public interest in our school and school work. At present this interest is low, and as only a few really know our school life, this paper is the only way to reach the majority of the people.

The management of the "Flashlight" is in the hands of the Juniors, yet the work is done by the students of all three classes. In this way we are able to think of it as "Our Paper" and the parents know it to be the work of their children, as well as that of someone else.

The business men of the town have taken an interest in this work and we wish to thank them for their "ads" for without them there would be no paper, because there would be no money.

The success of the "Flashlight" lies with the people. If you will buy our paper, it will succeed, but if the circulation proves too small, it will be a failure, financially, for as it stands now, it is not a profit making adventure. We have done our best to write things to please you, and we hope you appreciate it. So, buy a paper for yourself, and for your friends who do not live here, so that the paper will live, and not only live, but thrive.

ST. JOSEPH TEACHERS TO TAKE EXTENSION COURSE

State Teachers College Here Will Furnish Instructions For Classes Starting November 5

The extension course to be given for teachers of the St. Joseph public schools by Maryville State Teachers College, will be started Saturday November 5. It is probable that the sessions will be in the annex of Central Public Library. Henry A. Foster, chairman of the extension division of the teachers college, has organized classes in principles of teaching and educational sociology, and may also have classes in public health control and higher mathematics.

Each single course will entitle those who successfully complete it to two, and a half hours' credit. No teacher may take more than two single or one double course. Efforts are being made by John W. Thalman, superintendent, to have educational sociology classed as a double course. The course will run twenty weeks and the classes will meet every two weeks instead of weekly, as last term. Each period will be an hour.

State Teachers College will organize similar extension classes in any other communities where there is a demand for them.

MISSING LINK SERMON IS POSTPONED TO THURSDAY

No Personalities in His Sermon Discussion, Says Evangelist—Preparatory Sermon Tonight

On account of the rain the audience was cut down considerably at the service last night. A splendid service was held, however, and Dr. Kellems gave a heart searching appeal to all Christians present from Paul's wonderful chapter on Love, as recorded in 1 Corinthians 13. It was thought best to postpone the sermon on "The Missing Link" as the country people, many of whom are anxious to hear the discussion could not get in on account of the muddy roads.

"The Missing Link" sermon will be preached tomorrow night, Thursday, thus giving time for the announcement of it in the surrounding country. Dr. Kellems announced, however that the sermon tonight will be about as important in the handling of this theme as the sermon tomorrow night. The subject for this evening will be "Revealed Religion" and will be in direct preparation for the discussion of "The Missing Link."

The Evangelist announced last night that in the discussion of this subject no personalities would be indulged in and that it was only an attempt to discover what real Truth is regarding this much talked of theme. Not only some statements that have been made locally will be handled but many of the items regarding this Darwinian theory will be gone into in both of these sermons.

Professor Humbert and Mrs. R. E. Snodgrass sang "My Mother's Prayer Has Followed Me" at the services last night. Tonight Mrs. F. P. Robinson will sing a solo.

MAD MODES IN AUTUMN STYLES STARTLE PAREE

Hats Trimmed With Glass, String and Straw and Snake—Encircles Caps Being Worn

Paris, Oct. 26.—Paris is wearing its Autumn face, and its Autumn face, of course means its new-clothes face. The two are synonymous, for Paris always expects to redress and re-style herself completely at least four times a year.

It is the Autumn re-dressing that she enters into with the greatest zest. The first violets have appeared in the streets, and so it pleases madam to dress almost exclusively in violet. Cyclamen mauve toning to purple, amethyst, fuchsia and heliotrope—these are the colors madame is wearing.

Her clothes must be amusing, too, she enters into with the greatest zest. She would rather have amusing clothes than any others. That is why monkey fur is still so popular. It is amusing, or it would never have been tolerated. But it has been "in" for two or more seasons.

So the little god who sees to madame's amusements casts around for fresh diversions and produces the "Aunt Jane" handbag.

Paris has gone mad over "Aunt Jane." She is a formidable, poke-buttoned creature dressed in rustic black taffeta. She carries a reticule in one bony hand and tiny spectacles on her absurd wooden nose. But a slit in her voluminous skirt reveals a secret hand-bag lined with rich satin and containing a miniature and complete dressing-table outfit.

Next in favor come the Punchinello walking sticks and the Caliban "broilies." Faces make the handle—faces of which nightmares are made, and the uglier and more grotesque the face the more is madame pleased.

Waistbelts of turkey skin and shoes of snake skin are graciously looked upon, and so are the Egyptian bou-doir caps with their wired and jeweled serpents that dangle over either ear.

Togues are as varied as the faces beneath them, and some might have been designed by Robinson Crusoe in his spare time.

On the whole the "Shock-Headed Peter" one is the favorite. It is a mixture of fringe, glass, string and straw trimming, and its name does not belie it.

Never have sleeves been so fantastic, Leg-o'-mutton, bishop or balloon—which is the more amusing?

The Autumn fashions are certainly not dull, whatever else they may be.

Saw Football Game at Ames.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bellows and W. N. Deatherage of this city and Harry Tilson of Burlington Junction drove to Ames, Ia., in Mr. Bellows' car to see the Kansas-Ames football game last Saturday in which Kansas won. While there they were guests of Mr. Bellows' sister, Miss Mildred Bellows, who is attending school there.

LARGEST CIRCULATION IN NODAWAY COUNTY

Anybody can see things coming down these days. Look at the leaves.

This is the time of the year when it is well to run the furnace out of the garage and see how she performs.

It may be that the constitutional convention can not excel the fathers in writing a constitution but, having the old structure already it ought to be able to install a few modern improvements safely.

The prosecuting attorney of St. Louis has defined gambling as follows: "If a man plays any kind of a game of chance and gets back more or less than he puts up, he is gambling. If he gets back what he puts up, that is not gambling." So far, so good. But what about the fellow who plays in a game where there is no chance? Is he gambling or does he just think he is.

The next session of the legislature will be November 3 to take action on the soldiers' bonus and road improvement. The last session made March 1923, the earliest date that road construction under the big bond issue could begin. An effort now will be made to authorize an earlier start on the work. This will not only give the people the roads so much earlier but help to relieve the unemployment situation.

WILSON.

There can be no doubt that the verdict of history on President Wilson will affirm his greatness. In great moments of crisis during the last eight years, President Wilson has risen to real heights and has done worthy and memorable things.

His name will stand in history either as the sponsor of great hope or the record of high tide in human affairs from which impotent humanity is receding. He, the first of all world statesmen at the end of a ghastly world catastrophe, tried to make a settlement based upon justice, not on force, upon what should be rather than what could be.

Either the League of Nations will rise during this century and work for peace on earth and good will among men, or it will fail and its failure will herald in such an epoch of horrors that humanity in its decay will look back to the glorious dream which this man dreamed as the beginning of the wreck of nations and the crash of civilization. In either even, Wilson's name is safe. He aspired greatly, he strove with what strength he had and with what weapons God gave him. He lost; his powers were not sufficient for his task. His hand was not as strong as his heart. He called the spirits from the vastly deep, but, alas, they did not come. His loss is mankind's loss. But even if he lost, he lost but, losing, won.

He is not the first Moses led in the wilderness, even though he stood by the burning bush; nor the first Isaiah to preach righteousness vainly to a wicked and perverse generation.—William Allen White, in Emporia Gazette.

YOUR INFLUENCE

There once lived a poor boy who worked at a saw mill to help support his mother and her other children. A neighbor discovered that this boy had the makings of a great man in him. He went to see the boy and told him that he wanted him to quit his job at the saw mill and go to college. The boy could not see any possible way this could be accomplished, and the neighbor said: "You see those woods over there?" "Yes." "Can you see through the woods?" "No." "Can you go through the woods?" "Yes." Then he said, "You cannot see how you can work your way through college, but you can if you will try, and you must." That boy tried and succeeded. He became a great president of college, and talked hundreds of other boys into getting an education. Probably that man did not know that he was setting in motion an endless chain of good influence; that he was starting an uplifting circle that will go on and on, ever widening, ever swelling, until it lashes against the shores of Eternity!

It might surprise you to know just how much good you alone can do. Use your influence for the cause of education. Just as the coal and iron industries are basic industries this cause is a basic cause. Give your influence some exercise every day. Use it for God and for Humanity, and may success crown your efforts!

Charles Dickens almost missed the chance of getting an education. His parents were poor and Charles worked in a blacking factory. Because he was making a little money and because she needed it, his mother wanted him to keep working there. Let him tell it: "My father said that I should go back to the factory—no more, and should go to school. I do not write resentfully or angrily, but I never afterwards forgot, I never shall forget, I never can forget, that my mother was warm for my being sent back." She wanted him to work for a few cents a day—this boy who had it in him to write books which would abolish debtors' prisons and reform wrongs in lowly places. This boy whose works are immortal and have already made the lives of countless thousands happier, sweeter, better, just came in a half inch of having his God-given talents smothered by his own mother!

Handel, the George Washington of music, almost missed getting a musical education. His father was an obstinate man who hated the sound of music and would not let an instrument come in his house. He took this boy out of school because they taught music there. Handel's mother bought him a clavichord which was kept hidden in the garret and played only when his father was away. The only thing that the Duke of Saxe-Wesensfelz ever did that was worthy of being remembered was to talk Dr. Handel into giving young Handel a musical education; for that his name will be gratefully remembered so long as time shall last! "I should be sorry," said Handel, "if I only entertained them. I wish to make them better." When questioned about his feelings while composing "The Messiah" Handel said, "I did think I did see God before me and the great God himself!"

ARMISTICE DAY IS NOW A LEGAL HOLIDAY.

Armistice Day in Missouri this year will be a legal holiday.

The Missouri legislature, at its last session, as the result of efforts of the American Legion posts of the state, passed a law declaring November 11, the anniversary of the signing of the armistice, a public holiday.

This assures the closing of all state, county and city public offices, all banks and all government offices in the state.

As a result of this and of the celebrations being planned in the observance of the opening of the disarmament congress, it is believed Armistice day will be more generally observed in the state this year than ever before.

MILK BY-PRODUCTS GOOD FOOD FOR YOUNG ANIMALS

While whole milk is nature's balanced food and is valuable for young animals, skim milk and other creamery by-products, such as buttermilk and whey, are also useful feeds, say specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture. Skim milk is fed to young pigs in the proportion of about 3 pounds to 1 of concentrates, such as corn meal or shorts. Buttermilk, which has not been diluted too much with water, has nearly the same feeding value as skim milk. It is a better food for swine than for calves, because it is not so cause digestive disturbances when fed to the latter unless considerable care is used. Whey is used almost exclusively in feeding swine. It is about two-thirds as valuable as skim milk as a food. Accordingly from 10 to 12 pounds of whey are equivalent to 1 pound of grain. Sweet skim milk, when supplemented with other feed such as corn meal or wheat shorts, is very good for young calves. If beef calves are to be fed skim milk, they should be fed in practically the same manner as dairy calves.

Mexican Bandits Captured
Mexico City, Oct. 26—Fourteen bandits who held up the Laredo bound passenger train and fled with 200,000 pesos after killing three soldiers and two passengers, have been captured. Their summary execution is probable. All stolen money has been recovered.

ADVISES FARMERS TO STUDY MARKETS

GOVT. LIVESTOCK REPORTS KEEP PRODUCERS INFORMED

MUST LOOK FAR AHEAD

Supply and Demand Are Factors Which Govern Prices—Markets Move in Cycles

How can the farmer and stock raiser turn the live-stock reports of the Bureau of Markets, United States Department of Agriculture, into dollars is frequently asked.

The answer is for the farmer to get so much information out of the reports that he can conduct his breeding, feeding, and marketing operations a little more intelligently in the future, and therefore more profitably than in the past.

Markets Move in Cycles

Market reports are history, and the chief value of history is the basis which it provides on which to forecast the future. In other words, what has happened in the past will probably occur again under the same or similar circumstances. Small benefit is generally derived from reading a single market report, or one covering a short period of time. Markets move in cycles, and the man who would keep informed must follow them diligently in season and out. This is a matter of particular importance to the stockman, because his business is, to an unusual degree, a long-time speculation. He must prepare now and lay plans to market in the light of what he thinks the market will be anywhere from six months to two years hence. But how will the department's reports assist him in doing this?

First of all, he should take into account potential supplies of the particular class of live stock in which he is interested. Assume that cattle is his line. The monthly report, Stock at Stockyards, gives the number of cattle and calves marketed from month to month through 68 central markets. If such movements are unusually heavy for any considerable time, it may indicate shortage during the next year or two, and a shortage of any commodity usually means higher prices.

This same report also shows the number of cattle and calves that went back to the country as stockers and feeders. If such movements were exceptionally light, it would help to confirm the belief that a comparative shortage in cattle was impending. On the other hand, heavy stocker and feeder shipments would go a long way toward neutralizing the importance of the heavy receipts, for the stockman would know that most of these cattle going back to the country must be returned to market during the next few weeks or months and enter consumption channels. Having established in this fashion a broad basis for his operations, let us assume the stockman is feeding a lot of steers for the market. He must now give market reports more careful and persistent attention than before. It is quite important that he know what kind of cattle are in best demand on the principal markets. If there is a steady inquiry for heavy unshorn cattle, and that kind are selling at a premium over lighter weights, it will probably pay him to "feed his cattle out," unless the cost of feed is exceptionally high.

If, however, consumptive demand seems to be drifting steadily toward lighter retail cuts of meat, or, because of general business depression or some other cause, is centering chiefly on the lower and cheaper grades, he may find it more profitable to market his cattle at an earlier age and before they have attained great weight.

Abundant information along this line will be found both in the live-stock market reports dealing with meat-trade conditions in the large consuming centers.

Keep Posted on Consumption

In this connection the stockman will also be interested in keeping advised as to whether the slaughter of meat is increasing or decreasing and whether the movement applies equally to all classes of meat, or whether slaughter of beef is decreasing while that of some other class is increasing. This information is obtainable from the live-stock and meat situation, which is based on the Federal meat-inspection reports of the Bureau of Animal Industry and is also published monthly by the Bureau of Markets.

Because of the important bearing which it has on the price of cattle he will also want to keep in touch with the market for hides, tallow, and other animal products. When such products are selling high the packer and slaughterer can pay relatively more for the cattle than when by-products are low. For such information he will consult the hide and skin reports which are published at frequent intervals.

HAYS ADVISES

OUR POSTMASTERS

Washington, D. C., October 26—Postmaster General Hays has framed a new code of action for the "window" man in our postoffices in dealing with people who are complaining about the delivery of letters and packages.

"In meeting the public at the window, bear in mind that you are the pivot or turning point; while the public is at one end the postmaster or the department is on the other," he directs in order promulgated by Assistant Postmaster General Work.

"No matter how well our business may be conducted there will always be errors of omission as well as errors of commission and these errors are prone to produce a lack of confidence in the postoffice department and work toward the destruction of its efficiency; hence, you as the pivot or turning point, must make it your business to hold this confidence and steady the efficiency."

"Whether the complaint is due to the fault of the office or the patron, whether it be real or imaginary, you must meet it. But how?"

"Here is where your diplomacy must be brought into play. Be a good listener, do not side with him the first thing, show him how a dozen things might have happened, but should you be convinced that you are wrong, 'climb the barbed-wire fence' and tell him how much we regret it, but will take the matter up and will use every effort in our power to see that it does not happen again."

"Should he grow ugly, keep cool, smile (it is worth a hundred words), let him rave, he will get over it then in a kindly manner, ask him: 'Just what do you wish us to do?' This method will take him off his guard and he will cool down, but if this last method fails, tell him in a kindly voice that you regret that you are unable to satisfy him, keep your head, think before you speak, do not say anything that will continue the argument, play the gentleman, and above all, do not worry. 'The barking dog seldom bites' and if you have done your best to handle the case you may rest assured that the postmaster and the department will back you up but always keep in mind that you are the pivot, settle it if you can, remembering at all times that each end has its rights and it is your place to see that each end gets its just dues."

"A finished transaction is an asset, unfinished business is a liability. Finish the job."

Hens Pay For a Home

"I visited this week the home of a little family that came here from Kansas five years ago with just $300," writes a Florida home demonstration agent working in cooperation with the United States Department of Agriculture. "Their White Leghorns have supported the husband, wife, and three children, paid for a little home, a motor car, several modern poultry houses, and many other things needed in the business. At present there are about 1,000 birds on this place. The husband and wife do most of the work."

Forumettes

A West Fourth street boy was late Sunday school and the superintendent asked the reason. "I was going fishing but dad would not let me," he replied. This pleased the good man who said, "That is the right kind of a father to have. Did he tell you why you could not go fishing on Sunday?" "Yes," answered the lad, "there was not enough bait for two."

A little girl residing on Fillmore street was at the home of a neighbor the other evening with her parents when she heard the word "bachelor" used in the conversation. "I know what a bachelor is," she volunteered. "Well, Mary, what is a bachelor?" her mother asked with pride. "A very happy man," was her reply. "How do you know that?" asked her mother. "Father told me," she said.

BUTTER FOR PARCEL POST MUST BE WRAPPED SECRETLY

Successful parcel-post marketing of butter requires that extreme care be taken to insure the delivery of a satisfactory product to the consumers, say specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture. The following are a few of the important considerations to be observed to market butter successfully by parcel post:

A uniformly high-quality product should be produced.

It should be properly packed in neat and attractive packages.

The shipping container used should amply protect the butter from deterioration and damage.

The package should bear the address of the sender and be properly addressed, to the customer.

The most expeditious mail service from the mailing office should be used to insure delivery in the best condition.

Postal regulations provide that butter will be accepted for mailing to all offices to which, in the ordinary course of mail, it can be sent without spoiling when suitably wrapped or inclosed or when packed in crates, boxes, or other suitable containers to prevent the escape of anything from the package, and so constructed as to properly protect the contents.

EXCESSIVE MOISTURE IN CORN

CAUSES LOSS IN EXPORTING

Large quantities of corn shipped from the United States arrive in Europe in a heated, damaged, and spotted condition. According to the Bureau of Markets, United States Department of Agriculture, the amount of moisture in corn, and in other grains as well, is the primary factor determining its capacity to carry safely in ocean transit without deterioration.

Corn in which the moisture content is sufficiently low will carry safely under ordinary conditions of ocean transportation for any reasonable length of time during any season of the year, no matter where it is stored in the vessel, while corn containing a high moisture content is constantly in danger of heating at any time owing to a variety of contributing causes. Thoroughly air-dried corn contains from about 12 to 13 per cent of moisture. Such corn may be shipped for export at any time under ordinary conditions with little or no danger from heating in transit. This is practically true also of corn containing up to 14 per cent moisture, provided fermentation has not started.

The fact that certain lots of corn contain higher percentages of moisture does not necessarily mean that they will not sound and shipment safely. The corn may be perfectly sound, the voyage may be short, the air temperature at the time of loading and during the voyage may be low, no disturbing influence, such as heat radiating from the ship's boilers, engine rooms, and shaft tunnels, may be encountered, and the corn kept practically in cold storage. Under such most favorable conditions corn with a relatively high moisture content may sometimes be carried safely.

Nations Unite for Temperance.

At the sixteenth International Congress against Alcoholism which was held in Lausanne, Switzerland, August 22-27, there were 500 delegates present from twenty-two nations. In an address by the president of the Swiss Republic, in which he welcomed the foreign delegates, he said such a remarkable gathering would give an added impetus to the movement and was a promise of the eventual deliverance of humanity from a curse that impaired the vitality of nations.

The questions dealt with covered scientific, educational and legislative phases. Prohibition in the United States occupied much attention and Miss Cora Stoddard and several other Americans spoke on this theme. "White Ribbon" night was a joyful occasion. Miss Agnes Slack, our world's secretary, presiding. Delegates from France, England, Belgium and Germany, so recently in war, met together with a great common purpose without any ill will being manifested.

Market Letter

Kansas City Stock Yards, October 26.—The increasing belief that the proposed railroad strike will be of much smaller proportions than thought probable, or that there will be some adjustment without a strike tended to reduce cattle and sheep receipts. Cattle here held steady in the face of lower prices for grass grades in Chicago. Hog prices were down 10 to 15 cents, top $7.30. The smallest run of sheep 5000, on any Monday in two months was cleared at strong to 50 cents higher price.

Monday's Receipts

Receipts Monday were 31,000 cattle, 8000 hogs, and 5000 sheep, compared with 37,000 cattle, 6000 hogs, and 16,000 sheep a week ago, and 22,000 cattle, 9000 hogs, and 5000 sheep a year ago.

Beef Cattle

Good fat cattle sold first at fully steady prices, and as soon as these cleared killers bought grass fat steers readily. Prices in the average were unchanged, though there was a better feeling in the trade than late last week. Some choice steers and heifers mixed sold at $9.00, medium to heavy weight fed steers at $8.75 to $9.50, and short fed steers $7.75 to $8.50. Grass fat steers brought $4.25 to $5.50, mostly $5.50 to $6.50. Demand for grass fat cows and heifers was more active than a week ago, though prices were not notably changed. Veal calves were firm.

Stockers and Feeders

Best classes of stock steers and stock cows and heifers were stronger. Feeders were steady. More than 42,000 steers and 173 feeders were shipped to country points last week. Demand today continued active.

Hens

Chicago reported the largest receipts of hens for some time past with prices lower. This decline weakened the market here but offerings cleared readily. The top price was $7.50 and bulk of sales $7.25 to $7.80. Pigs were in active demand at $7.50 to $8.40. Packers continue to buy hogs at up river markets and ship here for slaughter.

Sheep and Lambs

The bulk of the good lambs here Monday sold at $8.25 to $8.60, and were quoted 25 to 50 cents higher. Sheep were stronger. Ewes brought $4.00 to $4.25. Receipts were the smallest for some time past and indicate the approaching end of the range movement.

Horses and Mules

Trade in horses and mules increased some in the past week, though prices are not notably changed.

GUINEA FOWLS CONVERT

WASTE INTO EGGS AND MEAT

Guinea fowls utilize waste that would escape both hens and turkeys. Say poultry specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture. Taking a wider range than chickens, and yet not so wide as turkeys, keeping largely to thickets and weed patches, and committing fewer depredations against field and garden than either chickens or turkeys, requiring little feed at any time, being prolific layers during their season of eggs, and are thought by many to have a richer and finer flavor even than hens' eggs, the guinea fowl is well worth considering on any farm where a serious effort is made to convert all waste into meat and eggs.

KEEP TWO HENS FOR EACH

MEMBER OF THE FAMILY.

The average novice can reasonably expect to get an average of at least 10 dozen eggs per hen per year from his small flock in the back yard. On the basis of two hens to each member of the family this will give 20 dozen eggs a year to each person, which amount is about halfway between the average of farm and city consumption. No backyard poultry keeper should be satisfied with less than this, say poultry specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture. Every backyard poultry keeper should try to get as much more as possible. To provide an egg a day for each person, two hens would have to lay 183 eggs each a year.

Geese Are Grazing Stock

Geese have an important part in the endless war on waste. They are in a class with chickens in utilizing waste grain about stables and feeding pens in a larger measure than chickens or any other kind of poultry they are a grazing stock, getting their living in large part from the ordinary grasses of the pastures, say poultry specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture. When it is considered that the demand for geese is steady and extended over almost the whole year not confined to holidays, as is the case of turkeys, that geese are all other poultry as producers of the importance of geese in the poultry scheme is realized as important.

Building A Small Henhouse
In building a poultry house, new lumber will of course make the best appearing structure and will also be somewhat easier to work up because it can be bought in lengths most advantageous for the purpose. Houses for a few hens can sometimes be constructed from packing boxes while used material or second hand lumber if it can be purchased cheaply and is close at hand, will sometimes lower the cost of the house materially.

Occasionally, also, where a high board fence is available, the house can be built in the corner of the fence, thus saving the construction of the back and one side of the house. Care must be used to cover or batten the cracks, either by means of stripes or by the use of roofing paper. Construct the building so that the front of your henhouse will admit the sun light.

SIMPLE WAY TO PREVENT

LEATHER FROM MILDEWING

Any leather article is almost certain to mildew if kept in a warm, damp, and dark place, such as a closet, cellar, or stable. This mildewing probably will not reduce seriously the serviceability of the article unless it is allowed to remain on the leather too long. It may, however, change the color appreciably, thus injuring the appearance. The simplest way to prevent mildewing, say specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture, is to keep the leather in a well-ventilated, dry, well lighted place, preferably one exposed to the sunlight. Mildew can not make much headway in the sunshine. When mildew develops, it should be washed off with soap and warm water, or simply wiped off with a moist cloth, drying the leather well afterwards. These simple measures are preferable to the application in the home of preparations designed to prevent the growth of mildew.

Mr. Mayor, citizens of Birmingham, and people of the South:

"I have been wondering, as we have seen the Birmingham district and the marvels of this region's industrial development, whether any of us have yet quite realized the significance of the fact that Birmingham has been called 'The Magic City.' The basic characteristic industry on which modern civilization rests is iron and steel, and of which Birmingham has the world's last word in development of the iron and steel industries.

The South's Problem.

"We have come here to pay tribute to the marvelous achievements of a brief half century to which this city and its industries stand as a monument. They testify to us how far the South has progressed in a single generation, the generation since slavery was abolished and the rule of free labor and unfettered industrial opportunity became the rule of all of our great republic.

"I have many times wished that there might be a wider appreciation of the energy, resourcefulness and genius for industrial development which the people of the South demonstrated during the war. Essentially an aristocratic agricultural region, the South suddenly confronted the need to turn out iron and steel, and a vast complexity of their products which were absolutely essential to the conduct of the war. Not only did they rise to the occasion, but they gave what I have regarded as one of the greatest demonstrations in all history of the possibilities of adaption, organization and industrial development under stress of great necessity.

"We are gathered today to celebrate the semi-centenary of the founding of Birmingham. That this wonder could be wrought in so brief a time tells us how fast our modern world moves; so fast that we are wont to forget our yesterdays before our todays are fairly begun; so absorbing in its concerns of the present that too often we have neither time or interest for the tomorrow. Yet there never was a time when we needed so much to study our past and, in the light of its lessons, give earnest thought to the tomorrows. So I have thought that here in your magic city, whose story seems a very compress of yesterday, today and tomorrow, it may be proper to suggest a few thoughts regarding the critical times which are faced by our country and all countries and some of the issues which command our attention.

"Exhausted and affrighted by the horrors of the world war, the nations are seeking means to prevent repetition of such an experience.

Race Problem National.

"Our own country, though its necessities are less onerous, its difficulties not so grievous as those of many others, has yet occasion to consider wherein it may better its methods, adjust itself to the new relationships and equip itself for the new sort of struggle that lies ahead. Concerning one phase of this national problem, I want to say a few words.

"If the Civil War marked the beginning of industrialism in a South which had previously been almost entirely agricultural, the world war brought us to full recognition that the race problem is national rather than merely sectional. There are no authentic statistics, but it is common knowledge that the world war was marked by a great migration of colored people to the North and West. They were attracted by the demand for labor and the higher wages offered. The slow movement had been in progress for decades before, but it was vastly accelerated because of the war and has continued at only a slackened pace since. It has brought the question of race closer to North and West, and I believe it has served to modify somewhat the views of those sections on this question. It has made the South realize its industrial dependence on the labor of the black man, and made the North realize the difficulties of the community in which two greatly differing races are brought to live side by side. I should say that has been responsible for a larger charity on both sides, a beginning of better understanding, and in the light of that better understanding, perhaps we shall be able to consider this problem together as a problem of all sections and of both races in whose solution the best intelligence of both must be enlisted.

World Faces Same Problem.

"Whoever will take the time to read and ponder Mr. Lathrop Stoddard's book on the Rising Tide of Color, or say, the thoughtful review of some recent literature of this question which Mr. F. D. Lugard presented in a recent Edinburgh review, must realize that our race problem here in the United States is the only phase of a race issue that the whole world confronts. Surely we shall gain nothing by blinking at the facts, by refusing to give thought to them. That is not the American way of approaching such issues.

"Mr. Lugard, in his recent essay, after surveying the world's problem of races, concludes thus:

"Here then, is the true conception of the inter-relation of color—complete uniformity in ideals, absolute equality in the paths of knowledge and culture, equal opportunity for those who strive, equal admiration for those who achieve; in matters social and racial, a separate path, each pursuing his own inherited traditions, preserving his own race purity and race pride; equality in things spiritual; agreed divergence in the physical and material."

"Here, it has seemed to me, a suggestion for the truth way out. Politically and economically, there need be no occasion for great and permanent differentiation, for limitations of the individual's opportunity, provided that on both sides there shall be recognition of the absolute divergence in things social and racial. When I suggest the possibility of economical equality between the races, I mean it in precisely the same way and to the same extent that I would mean if I spoke on equality of economic opportunity as between members of the same race. In each case I would mean equality proportioned to the honest capacities and deserts of the individual.
